

The inside of each device looked nothing like I expected, especially with how different each motherboard looks. The compaq Deskpro EN was more difficult because everything is far more spread out. It really is amazing how much detail goes into the design of a computer. I find it interesting how even though computer construction is so diverse, they are all made up of the same key components.

Meta Quest Pro Chip ID

Compaq Deskpro EN

